What a beautiful day for a walk in the park! We had some new friends show up as a result of our presence at Tucson Meet Yourself - and a bunch of old friends. Many seized the opportunity to go out on more than one course.

I designed the Gimmick course by cutting out a square of map between each control and rotating it 180 degrees. All the map info was there - if you wanted to do some complex mental reconfiguring - or you could just take a compass bearing and beeline from control to control. And the next coursesetter at Greasewood will probably come up with yet another new gimmick to keep the oldtimers coming back for an "orange plus" course.

My thanks go out to Dave Follette for teaching the beginner's clinic and Helen Deluga and Ludwig Hill for stepping in at a table whenever I got busy.

After the meet, Helen and I went out for a gloriously American breakfast at the Waffle House with the Fedyk family. These Ukrainians are now part of the Phoenix club; Tatiana was a junior champ in the Ukraine. We had a lot of fun talking about orienteering here and there and every other topic under the sun.

It was great meeting everybody and a happy conclusion to my "Tucson Meet Yourself" recruiting project.
