What a great day to be in the mountains!

A total of 28 adventurous orienteers made the trip up the Catalina Highway for some tough orienteering at Bear Wallow. There was essentially only one course on offer today, a physically demanding 5km traditional point-to-point, especially so given the 8300' elevation and very steep, slippery slopes. The other option was to do as much of that course as you wanted, in any order, for what we've called an Adventure Course. There were far more takers for the Adventure Course, likely a testament to how tough it is to move up and across those steep slopes!

The p2p course was won handily by Erik Barr Zeilon, a Swedish orienteer and exchange student at UofA, in 55:37. The family team Ruination featured today's youngest participant (aged 10) and posted the third-best time on the course, 1:43:51.

On the Adventure Course were several veteran members of the Tucson orienteering community and also several first-time orienteers. Big kudos to everyone for tackling this tough terrain!

Shoutouts to Melissa Trout for running registration, Jeff Coker for helping at the start, the Sahuarita JROTC team for help lugging equipment, and Alan and Erik for helping with control retrieval. Thank you!

If you missed out on the fun you can check out the map and course on Livelox. If you participated today and have gps tracking of your run, please add it to Livelox!
